Domestic Violence Response Team

Family Service of Rhode Island CEO Margaret Holland McDuff speaks at a press conference on the institution of a Domestic Violence Response Team with the East Providence Police on Wednesday, Feb. 21. The East Providence Police in conjunction with Family Service of Rhode Island and Blue Cross, Blue Shield, formed the team to aid children and families in the city. The program will include follow-up visits to domestic violence victims by a bi-lingual Family Service licensed social worker to provide needed information and referral services.
